

The Deception Series Decoys are the most versatile waterfowl decoys to hit the market in years. The decoys are lightweight and can be collapsed to save space and make transportation much easier. In the collapsed position the decoy can act as a shell decoy and be set on ice, sandbars, mud banks or other land setups.

To expand the decoys unplug the valve and blow air into the valve or pull on the keel. Plug the valve hole to maintain the decoy shape. If the decoy does not fully expand after long periods of storage, set the decoy in the sun for a few hours or run warm water over the decoy.

To collapse the decoy unplug the valve and push the keel and bottom of the tail inward. Once collapsed plug the valve to maintain the collapsed shape.
